About you

We would like to know a little bit about you to make sure that the responses we get are representative of everyone in the district.

Please note that any written comments you make will be available for public inspection, including all information available on the council's website, this is a legal requirement in accordance with planning regulations. The information will be analysed to inform, produce and support the Core Strategy, Local Development Framework (LDF), Salisbury Vision and any revision to the Community Strategies. It will be used for this purpose, and may also be made available to our partners. The analysis will again be available for public inspection. Data will be kept until the final adoption of the LDF.

Issue 1

Ensuring a sustainable future for south Wiltshire – our greatest challenge

Sustainable future

On page 10 of the magazine, we argue why the issues of climate change and the trend for society to live beyond its means are the biggest challenges faced by us all.

Climate change and global warming should be a top priority for action

In the interests of reducing CO² emissions and combating climate change, we could make a policy that would require new developments of a certain size to off-set a proportion of their predicted energy use by generating renewable energy on-site.

We could encourage locally-based community heating schemes (which would use energy-efficient sources such as Combined Heat and Power and/or renewable energy).

In the interests of reducing CO² emissions and combating climate change, we could set targets for additional energy performance in new development, which would exceed the current minimum standards in the building regulations.

Issue 2

Agreeing the role our settlements should take

The need for growth

On page 12 of the magazine, we outlined the need for increased housing and employment in order to meet the expected growth in population.

Strongly agree Agree Neither agree or disagree Disagree Strongly disagree

New development should be targeted in settlements that already have the best range of facilities, services, transport and job opportunities.

Your comments

The role of Salisbury

On page 12 of the magazine, we need to decide what role the city of Salisbury will take in accommodating the predicted level of growth within the district.

Strongly agree Agree Neither agree or disagree Disagree Strongly disagree

Most new development should take place in Salisbury with its existing services and facilities.

Your comments

Identifying local centres

On page 13 of the magazine, the district contains a number of settlements which act as local centres to surrounding rural areas and we need to decide what role these will play in accommodating the predicted level of growth within the district.

Strongly agree Agree Neither agree or disagree Disagree Strongly disagree

The council should continue to target new housing and employment development within the larger settlements across the district to protect their continued economic and social viability.

We believe there should be more large scale housing development in Amesbury because new jobs created at Solstice Park, Porton Down and the expanding garrisons will encourage better local services and help regenerate the town.

It may be appropriate to identify settlements which can accommodate growth to meet the needs of the wider area as well as their own. This would support local services and facilities and increase access to them from adjacent rural areas.

Local settlements should retain their own distinctive character and individual identity.

Your comments

Option 7

Main villages

The evidence presented on pages 13 suggests that the villages can be grouped into four categories based on size and number of services. We need to define the role that our main villages, those with a full range of services, will take in accommodating growth within our district.

New development in villages and smaller settlements should be limited to that which is necessary to maintain existing services and facilities.

More new development should be allocated in order to try and grow the villages into viable local settlements with a greater range of services.

Option 8

Secondary villages

On page 14 of the magazine, the secondary villages, those which have at least one of the basic services, may also have a role to play in accommodating future growth.

Smaller villages and settlements do not have enough services or jobs to support significant new growth, without increasing travel by car, which should not be encouraged.

Option 9

Clusters of settlements

Clusters of settlements which together share a range of services have been identified on page 14 of the magazine. We need to decide what role these settlements will play in accommodating future growth.

Issue 3

Providing a decent, affordable home for all

Option 11

Providing enough new housing that meets the needs of the district

On page 15 of the magazine, we note that the demand for housing is set to increase due to the trend of smaller household sizes and the fact that people are living longer rather than a significant rise in population. We need to decide how we will provide this housing.

We should leave it to the market and public service providers to find sites for elderly and supported housing developments and consider them on a case by case basis.

All new large scale housing developments should make provision for low cost, affordable or social housing.

Provision of affordable housing should be left to discretion of the house builders

Option 12

Affordable housing

On page 17 of the magazine, we identify that there is a real and pressing need to provide genuinely affordable houses especially rented, shared ownership and discounted market rental properties. We need to decide the best way of providing affordable homes within the district.

Where new housing developments of more than 15 dwellings are approved, developers should be required to provide 40% of the new houses for are affordable or social housing without any subsidies.

Strongly agree Agree Neither agree or disagree Disagree Strongly disagree

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------

This could be raised to 50% - it would need some public subsidy but would deliver between 500 and 800 additional affordable homes over the next 20 years.

--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------

Requiring 60% affordable or social housing on new developments would require substantial public subsidy, but would deliver 1500 affordable homes in 20 years.

--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------

The provision of rented accommodation should continue to be the priority where needs are greatest.

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------

To help young and middle income households we should promote more shared ownership and assisted purchase schemes.

--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------

Because affordable housing is only sought on sites of 15 or more houses, over half of new housing developments are exempt. Lowering the threshold would secure more affordable properties.

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

We could reduce the threshold for affordable housing to developments of five units and above.

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------

On smaller sites the required proportion of affordable houses should be lower than that required on sites of more than 15 new dwellings.

On new developments of less than 5 dwellings, a financial contribution should be sought to help fund local affordable housing.

If left to the market alone it is unlikely that enough affordable housing sites will be identified.

It is important to work proactively with parish and town councils to identify sites for 100% affordable housing schemes to meet local needs.

Trying to make sure that the new housing required is actually delivered when needed

On page 17 of the magazine, we identify that trying to make sure that the new housing is actually delivered when needed. We need to decide how the houses we allocate land for actually get built.

Deciding where the new growth should be located: Salisbury

On page 17 of the magazine, we say that if Salisbury is due to accommodate a majority of the housing growth for the district, we need to decide the general location around the city this housing should go.

Salisbury is well situated to accommodate new housing, but where should it be targeted?

Deciding where the new growth should be located: the main villages

On page 17 of the magazine, We identify the need to decide what role, if any, should be played by the main villages in accommodating new housing.

Option 17

Making sure that we use land as efficiently as possible

On page 18 of the magazine, we identify that the use of previously developed land is preferable for housing rather than so called greenfield sites. Since there is not an infinite supply of brownfield land we need to decide how to make the best use of brownfield land.

Maximising the re-use of brownfield land (previously developed land) reduces the demand for greenfield sites and should continue.

Option 23

Social exclusion

A number of issues relating to social exclusion are set out on page 24 of the magazine. We need to decide how the policies of the new Local Development Framework can be used to address these issues.

Developers should make a contribution towards the provision of local social facilities and services, particularly where this will help to improve access to services for those living on lower incomes.

Developer contributions of this kind should be targeted to settlements where such services are available, even where this is some distance from the development site.

Option 24

Health and welfare issues

Availability of health and welfare facilities is an important issue, particularly within the rural parts of the district. We need to decide how to tackle these issues through the policies of the Local Development Framework.

Health and welfare facilities should be concentrated in accessible locations and provided together in the same location where possible.

Developers should make a contribution towards the provision or improvement of healthcare facilities, where the development increases demand for such services.

All new development should take account of use by those with disabilities.

The needs of very elderly residents should be addressed through the provision of new large-scale residential care facilities in the district.

Alternatively, the emphasis for elderly care could be on smaller-scale local facilities dispersed around the district.

Option 25

Providing access to services

On page 25 of the magazine, we identified the need to decide on the approach to providing these new facilities and how these are distributed across the district.

To ensure everyone has a good range of services within easy reach services should be provided in larger settlements, such as Salisbury, Amesbury, Downton, Mere and Tisbury.

To address problems faced by low income families, new development should be targeted to areas of greatest need even though this could mean significant new development in some rural communities.

Developers should make a contribution, either by providing new facilities or through financial contributions to help tackle the problems of social deprivation within the locality of the development.

Option 26

Protecting village pubs, post offices and shops

Page 25 sets out evidence which points to a general trend in the loss of pubs, post offices and shops from villages. We need to decide on how planning policies can be used to encourage the retention of these facilities.

We should support and protect village shops, post offices and public houses.

We should resist the change of use of such facilities unless it has been clearly proven that they are no longer viable.

Allowing combined uses, such as a post office within a pub, should be encouraged where facilities might otherwise be lost.

Some limited new housing in smaller settlements could help local pubs and shops to stay viable.

Safeguarding and enhancing cultural activities

As outlined on page 25 of the magazine, we need to decide the best way of maintain the district’s cultural assets while at the same time providing new activities and venues.

Arts, entertainment and cultural activities should be located in key settlements to ensure that everyone has reasonable access to a range of such facilities.

There is a lack of adequate cultural facilities within Salisbury and the rest of the district.

Option 28

Transport and access to services

On page 26 of the magazine we set out some issues relating to transport to and from services. We need to decide on ways in which policies in the Local Development Framework can contribute to improving transport links to services.

In order to ensure everybody has easy access to a range of services, facilities and cultural opportunities new development should be located in settlements with good public transport links.

New development should encourage and facilitate the use of public transport, walking and cycling as alternatives to car travel.

Major developments should encourage equality of access by providing adequate public transport choices to address the diverse needs of all sections of the local community.

Developers should contribute towards public and community transport, walking and cycling improvements.

Crime and safety

On page 26 of the magazine, we identified the need to decide on the role that planning policies can play in reducing crime and peoples perceptions of it within the district.

Developers should contribute towards preventative measures such as CCTV, lighting and community policing.

Developers should contribute towards the provision of local sport, leisure and open space facilities, particularly where they are contributing to the demand for such facilities.

Community access to public and private facilities - such as school and commercial facilities - should be encouraged and facilitated.

Page 28 sets out the evidence surrounding the natural environment of the district. We need to decide on policies on how the natural environment of the district should be protected and enhanced.

The natural environment is important to your quality of life.

The natural environment should be protected and enhanced wherever possible.

We should implement additional controls, over and above existing designations, that would further protect the natural environment.

We should identify, promote and protect locally important landscape and nature sites.

On page 26 of the magazine, we identify there is a strong agenda for growth in employment and housing within the district over the next 20 years. We need to decide how we can meet the need for growth while at the same time providing protection for the district's natural assets.

We could place a lesser importance on the natural environment when considering the need for important new development.

We should ensure that nature conservation measures are incorporated into all new development to ensure that developers address the ecological impact of new building.

Option 33

The historic environment

As outlined on page 30 of the magazine the district has a rich and diverse history and we need to decide how we go about protecting and conserving and enhancing the historic environment of the district.

We should extend controls over historic buildings, settlements and environments to help protect and enhance the unique character of the local area.

We should identify historically important (but unlisted) buildings that need additional protection.

There should be tighter controls in conservation areas, such as changing windows in a house.

We should seek additional controls over certain forms of development in the Stonehenge World Heritage site, such as telephone masts and agricultural buildings.

Regular surveys should be carried out to identify historic buildings at potential risk, supported by a strategy to protect and enhance them.

We should produce plans for the enhancement of conservation areas and other historic environments rather than react to proposals as and when they are made.

We should use public funds to enhance conservation areas and historic environments.

The community chest

Pages 34 and 35 of the magazine set the background to 'planning gain' and how this relates to the planning process. We need to decide how new planning policies can be used to raise funds to reinvest back into the community.

Developers should be made to pay for measures to address the impact of their development on local communities.

We should set up a 'Community Chest', (financial fund) to allow money raised from new developments to be targeted at priorities within the wider community area.

We should target 'Community Chest' funding on the six main market town areas - Amesbury, Downton, Mere, Salisbury, Tisbury and Wilton.

We should identify the things that new development will be expected to contribute towards in consultation with local communities.

We should introduce a tariff system so that developers can work out in advance how much they will be asked to pay.

Issue 10 Design

Making sure new buildings are appropriate to our district

Option 38

Design

As outlined on page 36, 37 and 38 of the magazine the design of the built environment is an important part of the planning process. We need to agree an approach to design matters within the district.

The "40 foot rule" restricting the height of new buildings in Salisbury has served the City well and should be retained.

The "40 foot rule" is too crude - a more flexible approach would encourage much needed new development in the City.
