

1.1 It is unacceptable to be required to comment on a document when a number of sections of that document are left vague and unspecified. It paves the way for a future insistence that the document has already been agreed. And this could lead to instances where a development is forced on a community because “the Core Strategy says it must be built and this is the only place available for it” but this place is rejected by the residents who only found out about its placement after the Strategy was finalised.

This policy is unsound.

Revised wording
